NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—Reports indicate that Fat Freddie Filasimmons has become the toast of Philadelphia with even Rocky Harris cheering the former Brooklyn pitcher.

You will recall that on July 27 Freddie was named manager of the Phillies, succeeding Rocky Harris. The Phillies had lost 12 of their last 15 games, and apparently were heading for their pennant niche in the cellar.

But Cox, club president, blamed Harris, Harris blamed Cox, and later called Cox an "all-American jerk." The fans, uncertain about whom to blame, avoided Shibe Park.

NO EXPERIENCE
When Cox picked Filasimmons, most of the baseball writers and other friends of the fat man chuckled at Fred's apparent blunder. Fred in his 17 years of pitching with the Giants and Dodgers had become one of the most security-prone men in the game.

It seemed that Cox was commiserating Filasimmons' personality and goodwill merely to make the Philadelphia fans forget temporarily the club's fiasco. Freddie never had managed anything except a Brooklyn bowling alley, and seemed Fit was tackling a hopeless assignment that could bring him nothing but grief.

Even the Phillies players thought the importation of Filasimmons about July 28 when Freddie celebrated his 42nd birthday by taking over the club at St. Louis. 24 of the Cox players signed a petition threatening to strike unless Harris was given a chance to return in dignified fashion. He was playing good ball.

BEN men were playing ball for him—winning ball. On that same July 28 in their first game under his management, they downed the Cardinals 14, breaking the Cards' 11-game winning streak.

Since then the Phillies have registered 10 more victories against their detractors. And when the club returned to Philadelphia Wednesday from its road tour, it received an ovation from 11,319 fans.

To make the debut perfect, the Phillies beat Pittsburgh in both ends of a doubleheader, featured by the club's new manager, victory over Rip Russell, the National League's leading finger, who was seeking his 100th win. A Philadelphia reporter says Harris was in the stands cheering Fit and his players.

Brooklyn Blanks Reds 3-0
For Second Straight Victory

BROOKLYN, Aug. 13.—(AP)—Brooklyn made it two in a row over Cincinnati in a twilight game Thursday, beating the Reds 3-0 on Kirby Higbe's five-hit pitching. All of the Dodgers' runs came in the first inning off outpump Johnny Vander Meer.

Higbe, in returning to winning form, struck out eight and capped his first shutout of the National League season. It was his seventh success against nine defeats.

Vander Meer, who never has beaten the Dodgers, threw his first park since his second no-hit game in 1938, was nailed for three runs in the opening frame. He settled down to maul Higbe's material, but it was too late.

DOROTHY DIX SAYS—

Home Realization of Girl's Happiest Dreams Husband Refusing to Set Up One for Wife Denies Her Best Character Building Agent, Causes Her Untold Unhappy Moments

An exasperated husband asks me, if I don't think his wife is utterly unreasonable because she wants a home of her own. Ever since they were married they have lived with his family, and he points out with reasonable logic that this arrangement is not only much cheaper, but gives his wife less work to do than she would have if they set up a separate establishment.

Nevertheless the queer, irrational creature to whom he is married persists in demanding her own home and weeps and says that he doesn't love her when he refuses to give her one. Hence she is pained because she knows she can't be happy and satisfied when she has a perfectly good roof over her head and plenty to eat. And aren't women the things, anyway? And why do they make such a fetish of their homes?

WOMAN'S COSMIC URGE

Well, Mr. Man, for one thing, the desire of a woman for a home of her own is a cosmic urge. It has come down to her from her earliest forefathers who, when the supply of caves in which to live and rear their hairy babies ran out, they built huts of trees and grasses and so erected the first homes. And you can bet that each of those red-headed babies set up her own independent abode which she was the boss, and that she didn't drowse in with her in-laws.

To many men a home is merely a filling station and as soon as they have gotten their tanks replenished they get on the gas and jive away, and don't come back until the hot spots are closed up. Any place where the foot man serves the straight and narrow path, and the woman is a moral influence in pots and pans and gas ranges and vacuum cleaners that lift women up to the higher life.

Why? Don't ask me, but I have seen a complete set of aluminum ware regenerate a flapper and turn a live dancer into an sedate housewife in the twinkling of an eye.

WOMEN SEEK FREEDOM

That is why no woman wants to live with her own mother after she is married, and that is why she is miserable and discontented if she is forced to live with her mother-in-law, no matter how good and kind and considerate the mother-in-law may be, nor how luxurious the house she shares. For women are individualists, who wouldn't rather have her own two-by-four flat or a pasture-bungalow, of which she was sole mistress than live in another woman's palace. And because a woman's house is so completely the outward and visible sign of her self, she is so jealous about it that she shows about nothing else on earth. She is literally a woman's world. A Turk who can hear no rival share the throne of his empire, and a woman who attempts to interfere with her ways of housekeeping, or tell her how she does things, does it at her peril.

Possibly no more man can ever understand just what her home means to a woman for men are at best, imperfectly domesticated animals, and to most of them a home is mainly a place where they can hang up their hats and ease their feet and get the kind of things they like to eat without any order and then slump down in pipe and paper. Or else it is a place where they can grow and groom and work off all the temper and nerves they are afraid to exhibit in public.

Any woman who is merely a filling station and as soon as they have gotten their tanks replenished they get on the gas and jive away, and don't come back until the hot spots are closed up. Any place where the foot man serves the straight and narrow path, and the woman is a moral influence in pots and pans and gas ranges and vacuum cleaners that lift women up to the higher life.

Four Norse Fliers

Are Awarded D.F.C.

Four officers of the Royal Norwegian air force who trained at Little Norway, Toronto, and who have been serving with the R.A.F. overseas, have been awarded the D.F.C. for notable efficiency and good results obtained against enemy targets, the Norwegian press article was informed here yesterday.

has a shape and a set on the head that is interesting. Not far from the ear of such a child is not out of shape when it stands away from the head, it is due, primarily to the size of the ear, the ear which holds the ear itself away from or close to the head. With large ears set on a deep cup the result is certain to be flaring ears.

One might bend the tip of the ear inward... and that isn't a pretty ear-by-persistent bending, but it seems to me foolish. Why make a martyr of the baby in the futile hope of changing his ears to nice flat ones? Let the parent's baby's ears as we accept the rest of his features, as expressive of this particular small human being—and love him anyway.

Our infant, "Keeping Baby's Ears Attractive," suggests the type of set head which can be used either baby is an ear-roller. It also discusses bend of the ear from persistent sleeping habits. It may be had by sending a 4-cent stamped self-addressed envelope with your request to Myrtle Meyer Eldred in care of this newspaper.

Points for Parents

By EDYTH THOMAS WALLACE

This... Not This...

Mother: "With the nose and our old wail tube in the back yard, the children have about as much fun as they did going to the lake to swim."

Son: "I wish we could go out to the lake and swim."

Mother: "I wish we could do lots of things that we can't. Gas retuning sure spoils our fun."

Children's attitudes toward necessary changes in their lives depends largely upon the way their parents accept such changes.

McKenney On Bridge

By WILLIAM E. MCKENNEY

America's Card Authority

Morgan Howard of Los Angeles, president of the American Contract Bridge League last year, was in New York recently. We were discussing the relative merits of defensive and dummy play, and I had to agree with him that there is nothing nicer than to see a hand well defended. Howard gave me the hand shown today.

East won the opening diamond lead with the queen. His partner doubled three no trump, and East felt that the double was not based entirely on East's diamond suit. So he returned a spade, discarding the queen and West's hand shown today.

Poice Check on "Young Loafers," Vagrant Jobs

OTTAWA, Aug. 13.—(CP)—Ar-

Mr. MacNamara, director of national selective service, yesterday in an interview that municipal provincial and Royal Canadian Mounted Police are being used in some parts of Canada to round up "young loafers and vagrant jobless" for compulsory work placement.

Mr. MacNamara explained that "chuckle" loafers and persons unemployed for more than six months can be compelled to work for the alternative of six months in a work camp for refusal.

He said selective service has been using the services of the provincial and federal police forces for this work wherever necessary in Canada but that so far municipal police forces have drawn such assignments only at Fort William and Windsor.

let it hold New the theatre could cash five club tricks and take the heart finesse, which with the spade trick he already had, would give him eight tricks. But he could not make the ninth trick, setting the contract one.

What To Do

Where should a monogram be placed on a dinner napkin?

Answer—The position of the monogram is largely a matter of choice. It may be placed diagonally across the corner, in the very centre or in the space formed by folding the napkin in thirds or fourths.

Bear in mind that the purpose of the monogram is so it will be in plain view and arrange it in that manner on the napkin, remembering the design and the way in which the napkin should be folded.

Tablecloth monograms should be placed so they are not likely to be covered by a dish. It may be placed to the right of the hostess or there may be two monograms, one to the right and one to the left of the centrepiece.

because East had been smart enough not to pull the other diamond from his partner's hand.

After the heart finesse, declarer cashed his five clubs, holding West's discard of the heart. West declared then played the ace and a small heart, hoping that West would be forced to lead away from his spade tenace. But West had another diamond left, and the declarer thus took five tricks, setting the contract one.
